

Fair Dismissal after the Use of Internet Account for Private Purposes

Categories : News

Date : 25-02-2016

The ECHR had to examine the claim of a Romanian employee who was dismissed for using his professional Yahoo Messenger account, created on his employer's request, for private purposes. The employee was aware of the monitoring of his Internet account and according to the company's rules the private use of Internet was forbidden.